Introducing the Welch Family: L-R Joseph, Rus, Corrie and Pastor Heidi

Getting to Know the Welch Family

Where did Pastor Heidi grow up? Conneaut, Ohio.

And where did Pastor Heidi go to school? She has a Master of Divinity from Methodist Theological School in Ohio and a Bachelor of Arts in Religious Studies from Youngstown State University.

How did Pastor Heidi and Rus meet? Rus’s parents were Pastor Heidi’s pastors in Conneaut, but that’s not where the story begins. Ask her about it!

What ages are the Welch family children? Joseph is 9 and loves music, math and dance. Cornelia (Corrie) is 5 and loves princesses and the color pink. Their dog, Hans, is 5. (Corrie says “Like me!”) The kids will be attending Chippewa School this year!

Where has the Pastor Heidi served previously?
- Medina United Methodist Church
- Johnsonville Grace United Methodist Church
- Steam Corners United Methodist Church

What does Rus do for a living? A professional chef, Rus works at Crumb & Spigot in Chagrin Falls. He has also been a food and fashion photographer, and a contributor to the magazine Edible Cleveland.

Be forewarned! Rus tends to fall asleep during sermons. He blames it on his late hours working as a chef, especially on Saturdays. But, both of his parents were pastors and he developed the gift of knowing what the sermon was about—even with his eyes closed—because his mom would quiz him after service.

Summersault or cartwheel? Pastor Heidi says “definitely summersault.” She is looking forward to exploring Brecksville with her family, especially the hiking trails. Rus and Joseph love making new friends and have already met several of the neighbors. The Welch’s look forward to meeting you, too!
Greetings, Brecksville!

It’s hard to believe the day is finally here that I get to be your pastor! I came to meet with your Staff Parish Relations Committee in March to see if we would be a good fit together, but God has been placing Brecksville UMC on my heart for months. My husband Rus “teases” me that when I pray, God responds often audibly. (I don’t know how to explain that I know it’s God’s voice, I just do.) Well, last fall I began to have the sense that things were going to be changing for my ministry—I had no idea what this was to look like, but I knew in the next year things would look different. I began to pray, and one day in September I heard the name “Brecksville.” Rus had just started working in Independence, so after taking the kids to visit him at the restaurant we drove past Brecksville UMC. Joseph (our 9-year-old) asked, “Mom, where are we going?” I simply said, “To look at a church.”

Then I started seeing and hearing “Brecksville” all over the place:

- A bumper sticker on the back of a black Passat (the same car I drive) while driving in Strongsville
- Driving on interstates I’d driven a thousand times, the signs for “Brecksville: this way” and “Brecksville: this many miles” would stick out e.v.e.r.y. t.i.m.e.
- Teens mentioning to me when they were playing Brecksville in sports: football, volleyball, basketball, lacrosse (they never did this before!)
- Going through an old Memory Box and finding a note about meeting at Brecksville UMC for Chrysalis team meetings.
- When it was announced that Pastor Clark was moving to Hudson, I had three clergy colleagues—at separate times—ask me, “Are you going to Brecksville?”

When I (finally) met with Pastor Steve (the District Superintendent) and he asked if I would be interested in coming to Brecksville UMC, I laughed out loud. He was a bit taken aback until I told him how God had already laid the name “Brecksville” on my heart months ago.

To me, all these little signs together show that God is constantly at work in our lives. It just takes an open heart to know and open eyes to see. Where do you see God already at work in your life and at BUMC?

I am confident God has placed us together in this next season for a reason. I don’t know what that reason is yet, but I am praying for guidance and knowledge, and I ask that you will pray with me. How is God calling us to work together in the future?

Thank you for welcoming my family and me so well! I’m excited to see what God can do with us and through us as we work together to bring God’s kin-dom on earth!

Take care,

Pastor Heidi

“Do not be anxious about anything, but in every situation, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus.”

- Philippians 4:6-7
7 Suggestions
For welcoming our new pastor

It’s a time of transition for Brecksville United Methodist Church and for Pastor Heidi! How can we prepare for the arrival of our new pastor and make the most of a new beginning?

1. Pray Daily for Pastor Heidi and her ministry.
2. Send a note of welcome. Mail a card or letter to Rev. Heidi Welch, 7780 Plantation Drive, Brecksville, OH or e-mail pastor@brecksvilleumc.com.
3. Repeat your name. There are hundreds of us and only a four Welch’s! Wear a name tag on Sundays and try to remind Pastor Heidi of your name often as you can as she gets to know us all.
4. Things will be different. Pastor Heidi’s not going to do things exactly like Pastor Clark did. Embrace her uniqueness.
5. Be prepared to follow. Where is the Spirit leading us with Pastor Heidi’s appointment? Open your heart and mind and listen.
6. Make room for errors. No one gets it right 100% of the time, not even pastors, who are human after all! Be quick to forgive if mistakes are made.
7. Accentuate the positive. Every pastor has more strengths than weaknesses. Let’s each strive to speak positively about our pastors, both publicly and privately.

Pastor Heidi comes to us to encourage our faithfulness, challenge our presuppositions, to bring out God’s best in us, and to help us grow in our faith. Welcome her with love!

What We’re Wondering About: Itinerant Ministry

John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist movement, preached up to 40,000 sermons in his lifetime. He was an “itinerant” preacher, traveling from town to town in England, setting up Methodist societies.

Today, “Itinerancy” refers to the commitment by pastors to go and serve wherever their bishops send them. In the Wesleyan tradition, United Methodist pastors are “called to be sent.” Before they are ordained or licensed, clergy in the UMC agree to serve where their bishop appoints them.

The primary purpose that drives all appointments is the mission of the church, to make and mature disciples of Christ for the transformation of the world. Appointments are not made to make a pastor happy or a congregation content, but to match clergy and congregation to best minister to the people in the community of the church. The goal is to match the gifts and grace of a particular pastor with the ministry needs of a particular congregation. In this “serial leadership” of consecutive pastors – no two are alike – over time, the combination of skills blends to form a broad base of developed ministries. Pastors are called to be sent, Wesley believed, because there is a “probability of doing more good by going thither than by staying longer where we are.”

Dear BUMC, It was an honor receiving the Music & Worship scholarship because BUMC has been my family since the day that I was baptized, and it has been a huge part of my childhood. I’m glad that I will be moving on with BUMC in my corner. Thank you for this scholarship. I will use it wisely!

July is a busy, busy time for Fellowship Hall with Vacation Bible School followed by two weeks of Brecksville Little Theater Camp.

Save the Date for the RETURN OF LUNCH BUNCH
Tuesday, August 13 at noon

As people of faith, we find God’s presence in those who have been blessings to us. At our weekly staff meetings over the last weeks, prayers of thanks were lifted to God for the way lives are touched when we reach out to one another in service. People like all of the people who helped with Confirmation including the Watkins Family, Marianne Nolan, Deanne Kloss and Bill Rittman. Megan Louittit, who cheerfully stepped in to lead singing on a Sunday in May. All of the people who made the first month of Alex’s Lemonade Stand a success: Sarah, Addy, Austin, Catherine, Ryleigh, The Kardos Family, and The Watkins Family. So many folks put so much into Pastor Clark’s farewell picnic—we just can’t name you all. Thank you for helping surround Pastor Clark and Kathy with love. We’re thankful for each of you, and all of the ways that you serve as the hands and feet of Christ everyday, in so many ways!

Welcoming all of God's children.

Brecksville United Methodist Church is called to the ministry of reconciliation. We embrace diversity as a gift. We celebrate our human family’s diversity of sexual orientation, gender identity, race, ethnicity, age, faith history, economic status, marital status, physical and mental ability, and education. We affirm that all people are created in the image of God and as beloved children of God, all are worthy of God’s love and grace. We welcome the full inclusion of all people in the life and ministries of Brecksville United Methodist Church as we journey toward reconciliation through Christ.
Suggestions for Churches with a Young Pastor

Churches that receive a young pastor need to remember how lucky they are. Many congregations say they want a younger pastor, but few have the opportunity. They ought not, however, assume their church will automatically reach younger people simply because of the age of the pastor. Having a young pastor might improve the likelihood of a congregation connecting with young people, but not without openness to other kinds of change. Congregations sincere in their desire to work with a younger pastor to reach emerging generations must be flexible and open to new ideas and possibilities. Take the initiative in asking the young pastor for ways in which your church can become more inviting for younger people.

Congregants are encouraged to treat a young clergyperson as a pastor, not as they would act toward their children or grandchildren. It can be helpful to consider how one regards other young professionals. A patient being treated by a young doctor, for example, may not be able to help thinking, “That doctor is young enough to be my child or grandchild.” But that kind of thinking is quickly set aside in deference to the doctor’s professional role. In the end, many older people find themselves reassured when dealing with a younger professional who has the benefit of more recent training. This is the same kind of regard the congregation can offer to a young pastor. Show respect for your pastor by avoiding any remarks about age that could appear to lessen the pastor’s standing. One reason such support is important is that, while laity quickly discover the gifts younger clergy bring and accept their leadership, the same may not be true for staff now supervised by someone younger than they are. Pay special attention to language you and others use for young clergywomen, who routinely report the use of “little lady,” “cute,” and “darling.”

Church members can also take time to remember what it was like to be young or to be responsible for a young family. Then they may not be too quick to criticize a young pastor who struggles with the number of night meetings on the calendar. Expecting around the clock availability from a pastor is unreasonable, regardless of his or her age.

Remember how important your support and care can be for young pastors. Many patterns and attitudes are shaped in those early years of ministry. Pray for them. Invite them for a meal. Understand their special challenges. Many are away from their support networks. Increasing numbers bring substantial educational debt. Be their advocate for adequate compensation, proper parsonage standards, and observance of maternity and paternity leave. Also encourage habits that can sustain the pastor over a long-term ministry such as regular Sabbath, time for renewal and sermon preparation, vacation time, and continuing education.

Younger and older generations in the church would do well to keep in mind the adage “We’re all in this together.” Especially within the community of faith, what unites us in Christ is far greater than what divides us as representatives of one generation or another. We are called in “all humility and gentleness, bearing with one another in love and making every effort to maintain the unity of the Spirit . . . .” (Ephesians 4:2-4 NRSV)

Suggestions for Churches with a Clergywoman

Celebrate your new pastor. Know that your new pastor continues a tradition of women in ministry going back to biblical times. Do all that you typically do to welcome a male pastor, including praying for her daily. Give her a generous opportunity to fulfill her ministry, and let any judgment be by the biblical standard of fruitfulness.

Treat her as your pastor first. Avoid putting gender first in conversations about her. Talk about her as you would a new male pastor. Use the proper title, or ask what she would like to be called. Avoid using terms of affection, and resist language such as “woman pastor” or “lady pastor.”

She will bring unique gifts for ministry. Learn your pastor’s gifts rather than making gender assumptions. She has both strengths and limitations, just as your male pastors had. Most of your delights and objections will not be gender-based. Respect different types of leadership. Some male pastors are not very good. The same goes for women. If she isn’t serving your church well, it is not because she’s a woman.

Expect some resistance but avoid making very much of it. Expect some push back, especially if this is a new experience for your church. A few may leave, but far more are likely to join. Resist assuming the worst and making too much of it. Clergywomen are common in today’s world. Avoid allowing negative voices to dominate. Ask people to keep an open mind. Most resistance is based on the unknown.

Avoid stereotyping and assumptions. Keep pastoral expectations as before. Don’t assume she will be good with children but not finance. Don’t expect her to bring treats for meetings. Women often have family responsibilities but so do many men. Resist asking about her personal life, relationships, or family plans that you would not ask a male pastor.

Some things may not fit. Be open to repainting the office and replacing the pastor’s chair if it no longer fits the occupant. The pulpit may need adjustment for height, and make sure the sound system works for a female voice, especially if it’s high or soft.

Make sure there is a trusted feedback group. Your new pastor needs regular honest feedback from those committed to her success. Ensure that someone is asking your new pastor how things are going and listen. A trusted group that listens makes the pastor more open to receiving feedback she needs to improve.

Avoid references to appearance. Avoid making comments about her size, shape, or appearance. How she dresses or does her hair should not be a topic of conversation. Avoid such comments that would never be made to a male pastor.

> I have had more comments about my hair style than I can count, including “I am so glad you cut your hair; your last hair style was distracting when you preached.”

Pay attention to boundary issues. Take seriously any concerns a female pastor expresses about sexual harassment or unwanted actions involving staff, parishioners, or others. All clergywomen encounter such situations at some point. Train church leadership in how to recognize when harassment or sexism is at play. Members need reminding that “If you didn’t say it to a male pastor, don’t say it to a female pastor. If you didn’t kiss your male pastor, don’t do it now.”

> I’m the third female pastor, and I have no sense that people still object to having a female pastor, but they do still say inappropriate things!

The all purpose question to remember: “Would you honestly ask (say, criticize) this if the pastor were a man? If so, okay. If not, drop it.”

2019 General Conference

The Graceful Exit Option

At the 2019 General Conference the Traditional Plan was adopted, which maintains the current language in the Book of Discipline concerning homosexuality and same sex marriages (see the June 2019 Good Word). The General Conference also approved the temporary Graceful Exit option, which grants each congregation the limited option to leave the United Methodist Church, with all their property, if they satisfy certain requirements.

Over 250 years ago, John Wesley laid out the framework for the church, including Wesley’s Trust Clause. The Trust Clause means that even though the legal title to a church and its assets are held in the name of each local congregation, that property is actually held in trust for the benefit of each Conference. To sell or dispose of property, a local church must first get permission from its Conference.

This Graceful Exit option is extraordinary. A recent UM News Service article said that the exit option is the first exception in history to the Trust Clause.

Graceful Exit Requirements

The Graceful Exit option is temporary. If a congregation completes all requirements before December 31, 2023, that congregation may leave the denomination, taking their church property with them. Those requirements are:

1. Church Conference. The local church must hold a Church Conference, under the Discipline’s requirements. The decision to disaffiliate must be approved by a two-thirds majority vote of that congregation’s professing members attending that meeting;

2. Disaffiliation Agreement. If the local church votes to disaffiliate, a written Disaffiliation Agreement must be entered into with the Conference. That Agreement must address the following minimum terms:

   - The local church must pay any unpaid apportionments for the 12 months prior to disaffiliation, plus an additional 12 months' apportionments;
• The local church will have the right to retain its real, personal, tangible and intangible property;

• The local church must pay an amount equal to its pro-rata share of any aggregate unfunded pension obligations to the annual Conference -- that is, what the Annual Conference will owe to all of its retirees;

• The local church must satisfy all other debts, loans and liabilities, or assign and transfer those liabilities to its new entity prior to disaffiliation; and

• All payments must be made up front, prior to the effective date of the departure.

• The Conference may impose additional requirements in that Disaffiliation Agreement.

3. Conference Approval. Once the above steps are completed, the Annual Conference must approve the local church’s exit by simple majority vote.

Impact Upon Brecksville United Methodist Church

This is a summary of the steps required if a congregation wishes to consider the Graceful Exit option. Although the amount varies each year, Brecksville United Methodist Church’s apportionments in 2019 are $76,694. We are seeking the amount of our pro-rata portion of any aggregate unfunded pension obligations, which number could be large. Thankfully, we have no mortgage or any other debt of any kind.

We will watch carefully and learn as much as we can so our local church can make informed decisions. As we learn about the alternatives, we will share them in monthly Good Word reports, in bulletins, and on our website and social media platforms.

Brecksville United Methodist Church is a Reconciling Congregation. Our church family has made a commitment to open our doors with radical hospitality and welcome to all, and to minister to all people no matter their background, whom they love, their experience or where they are on their faith journey.
